

GASB 101

ARTICLE 05.30.25 SCOTT DALTON

September 23 @ 3:04 am

What You Need to Know About Compensated Absences

Are you prepared for the changes introduced by GASB Statement No. 101? Join Dean Dorton's government accounting experts for an informative, accessible overview of the new guidance on compensated absences. Whether you're new to GASB standards or need a refresher on what's changing, this session is designed to help you stay compliant and informed.

What You'll Learn:

- Key changes introduced by GASB 101
- Who the standard applies to and when
- Practical examples of calculating and reporting compensated absences
- Tips for implementation and transition
- Common pitfalls and how to avoid them

Who Should Attend:

Government finance professionals, accountants, auditors, and others involved in financial reporting and compliance for public entities.

Why Attend?

GASB 101 is the first major update on compensated absences in decades. Understanding its impact now will help your organization avoid compliance issues later. Dean Dorton's team brings deep experience and actionable insights to guide you through the changes.

? CPE Credit Available

Eligible participants can earn 1 hour of CPE credit for attending this session. CPE credit is only available for live attendees.

Download the Slides

Related Events

Cincinnati Building Forward: 2026 Construction & Real Estate Outlook

October 14 @ 3:00 pm – 6:00 pm EDT

Lexington Building Forward: 2026 Construction & Real Estate Outlook

October 14 @ 3:00 pm – 6:00 pm EDT

Louisville Building Forward: 2026 Construction & Real Estate Outlook

October 14 @ 3:00 pm – 6:00 pm EDT